

Keeping our youth local and employed

Cam Gerlach Wimmera Health Care Group

CAM Gerlach, 20, is an information technology technician with Wimmera Health Care Group.

Mr Gerlach said he had always had an interest in IT and was happy to take a traineeship at Wimmera Base Hospital in June 2007.

He has now finished his training, including a certificate three in IT, and works full-time for the hospital.

Mr Gerlach said he had many duties in his role as IT technician.

“It starts basically at helpdesk support and goes all the way up to doing more system administration and a little bit of network administration,” he said.

“There’s always something different to do and it’s the biggest place in the Wimmera to be doing IT as far as I can tell. There are also lots of people to meet and everyone is very friendly.”

Mr Gerlach said he was also studying a Bachelor of IT course, by distance education, with Charles Sturt University.